NEW RABIES ORDINANCE IS KILLED

Stephenson Moves It Be Eliminated As First Act of Meeting

DAVIS MOVES FOR IT

Liquor Ordinance Amended to Allow of Vehicle Seizure

At its meeting Monday night the Glendale council nipped in the bud all chances of the proposed dog ordinance ever becoming a law in this city. When a vote on the adoption of the ordinance was taken all members voted "no."

Promptly at 8 o'clock the council filed into the council room from the "committee-of-the-whole" sanctorium.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with by order of the mayor.

"Let's kill this dog ordinance right off the reel," said Councilman Stephenson.

Mayor Robinson instructed Clerk Van Wie to read the title of the proposed dog ordinance. After this reading Councilman Davis moved that the ordinance be adopted.

The vote was taken. As the names of the councilmen were read off, each in turn, registered a decisive "no."

"Now it is dead," declared Councilman Stephenson.

Thus was removed a proposed ordinance which, throughout its "preliminary" life, had experienced an unusually troublesome career.

It took just three minutes to put it on the scrap heap.

An amendment to the liquor ordinance of Glendale was adopted. This will permit this city to confiscate any motor vehicle used in the illegal transportation of liquor through or in Glendale.

The application of T. W. Watson to improve an extension of Kent place under grading and oiling specifications, was granted.

Peter L. Ferry was granted an extension of 90 days on the improvement of Oakridge and Cypress streets.

Ira J. Herbert and Gordon D. Phipps were granted a permit to conduct a patrol service in Glendale under the firm name of Glendale Patrol and Fire Dispatch.

An ordinance establishing the grade of Dixon, Lafayette streets and portions of Dorothy drive and Pacific avenue was adopted.

An ordinance establishing grade on portions of Tenth, Fifth and Fourth streets was introduced.

Map of Tract No. 6133 was adopted.

Protests on the work on Fifth street were referred to city attorney.

City attorney was instructed to amend zoning ordinance to make Chestnut street, from Louise to Glendale avenue a first-class residential district.

WARREN WEST MAY RECOVER FROM FALL

After 85-foot Fall Friday, He Has a Chance for His Life

Warren West of 1815 South Brand boulevard, who fell 82 feet from the scaffold on a building being erected at Seventh and Myer streets, Los Angeles, last Friday, is still in a precarious condition at the California hospital, Los Angeles, although the physicians in charge state that there is some chance for his recovery. X-ray pictures taken show that his back is broken at the lower portion of his spine, and that he also sustained a crushed hip, broken foot and ankle and internal injuries. He was put in a cast this morning. No visitors are allowed to see him.

Mr. West was working on the scaffold being anchored to this structure when a small whirlwind came up and tore it from the building. Three of the men working fell thirty feet and the other two fell 82 feet, landing in a small pit ten feet deep.

THE WEATHER
Southern California: Tonight and Wednesday fair. Light to heavy rain in the interior in early morning.
Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair, cool weather tonight and Wednesday.

K. P. ADOPT BOY SCOUTS TROOP NO. 1

Oldest Unit in the State of California Is Sponsored

BIG MEETING IS SET

Banquet Is to Be Held on Friday Evening at Church

Troop No. 1, Glendale, which is the oldest troop of Boy Scouts in California, having a record of more than eleven continuous years to its credit is to be sponsored by the Knights of Pythias organization, according to plans that were completed Monday evening at a meeting of a special committee and the Scout Executive, Harold Benner, at the district boy scout office. The new troop committee consists of: A. H. Davis, chairman, 610 East Broadway; E. E. Fram, 348 West Windsor; M. J. Edwards, 525 W. Myrtle; Robert N. Taylor, 336 W. Park. The new scoutmaster, S. B. Joliffe, 512 S. Louise street, was also present at the meeting last evening. Robert M. Searle will continue as assistant scoutmaster. It is the plan of the troop committee to make this troop one of the most efficient boy scout organizations in the Verdugo Hills district. They are planning to have every member of the troop out to the parent and scout banquet which will be held next Friday evening February 9, at the Congregational church.

The reorganization meeting will take place on Friday evening, February 15. The school board has extended to the scouts the use of a room in the Magnolia avenue school on San Fernando road.

Troop No. 1 was organized in September, 1911, under the leadership of Scoutmaster J. G. Goodcell. Ever since it was organized no one has officially sponsored its activities, and it is a feeling of great joy and satisfaction to the scouts now in the troop to have a prominent organization, the Knights of Pythias, behind them.

Errors, Omissions and Additions Shown to Big Assembly

The errors, omissions and additions to the regular lodge work as exemplified by the past exalted rulers of Glendale lodge of Elks, No. 1289, who were in charge of the regular meeting of that organization last night, provided a great deal of fun for the 400 members who were present, none of whom were backward in voicing very liberally their comments. Albert D. Pearce and Alfred F. Priest were the past exalted rulers of No. 1269 who were in charge of arrangements for "Past Exalted Rulers" night.

The various stations were filled by the following past exalted rulers: Exalted ruler, Albert D. Pearce; esteemed leading knight, C. D. Thom; esteemed loyal knight, Bert P. Newport, past exalted ruler of Hanford, Cal., lodge, was put in as chaplain.

During the early part of the evening Albert Pearce called on all the charter members present to stand up. There were eleven of the twenty-seven charter members present. The Glendale lodge was organized in October, 1912. Past exalted rulers from other lodges who were present and recognized, responding with short talks, included Clarence Kaighn of Pasadena lodge, J. M. Rhoades of Hell Gate lodge, Montana, and Past Exalted Ruler Schulze of Jamestown, N. Y.

Nominations were made for officers for the coming year. These nominations will be continued at all of the February meetings. By dispensation, the regular meeting of Glendale lodge will be discontinued for next Monday night when the officers and members will go to Monrovia to initiate a class of candidates there.

Following the business session an entertainment was given by professionals from Los Angeles and later a lunch was served in the banquet room. The orchestra was represented by twenty members last night and furnished music during the evening.

HIGH GROUND BREAKING BECOMES REAL FAMILY PARTY CELEBRATION

Contractor Mitty Pledges the Completion of Buildings by the Opening of the Fall Term in September Next

ARCHITECT LINDSAY MAKES ADDRESS

Daniel Campbell Turns Over the Ground Under the Eyes of the Students and Other Trustees and the Faculty Members Follow

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

A real family celebration was the ground-breaking Monday afternoon on the beautiful green campus at Broadway and Verdugo, where the walls of the new high school are so soon to rise. It was an intoxication to view so lovely a site and realize into what a heritage of beauty the students will enter. It was like the center of a great green bowl rimmed about by the rounded hills to the south and west-where serve as footstools to the peaks to the north, veiled in the lace-like mist which half concealed their pinnacles.

Though Contractor Mitty is fairly panting to get to work that he may make good his promise to turn over the completed plant next September, he generally agreed not to start until today that the school might turn the first soil on the site of the administration building.

By 3:30 a "cloud of witnesses" dwarfed by the bigness of the grounds stretching away to the east and south was waiting around the temporary platform for the exercises to begin.

Freshmen and their small brothers were on hand in numbers, perched on lumber piles and other advantageous sites. "Warmed by the new wine of the year" the sunshine, and stimulating mountain breezes, they were not to be surprised in ardor and did considerable crowing, cat-calling and audible commenting which entertained the indulgent audience.

The band boys had marched from the present school campus and were ready with the boom, boom, of a drum to lead the student march which outlined the plant, as marked by stakes flagged with red and black streamers. It gave to marchers and watchers a new appreciation of the plans that are to be materialized in beautiful buildings, for the line measured about 22,000 feet.

When the march was concluded and the marchers returned to their places opposite the stand, the band played "America" and Mrs. Florence Parker led the audience in the singing of one verse.

Principal George U. Moyse recited some recent history about the signing of the contract and the promises which the North Pacific Company had made relative to the completion of the buildings.

September next, which statements were later substantiated, by George Mitty, one of the members of the company, who will be the foreman in charge of the work. Mr. Mitty referred to the promise to have the building finished by September 25 and said he would try his best to give the people of Glendale a good job.

Mr. Moyse then called upon Thomas D. Watson, president of the board of trustees, who frankly voiced his deep personal interest in the occasion, saying:

"I do not know of anything that has happened in my whole life that has given me greater pleasure than this taking part in the breaking of the ground to be occupied by the high school next September. There is a lot of work to be done between the perfection of the plans and the finished buildings, but Mr. Mitty has agreed to turn the buildings over to us ready for occupancy at that time.

"The plans for the ground breaking were made very simple partly because of the lack of time and partly because we felt it was a ceremony more fitting for students and faculty than for the world at large. At the laying of the corner stone we hope to have the heads of departments of the city government, with us, and heads of the various organizations of the city."

Members of the combined boys' and girls' glee clubs sang "America, the Beautiful" and "I Love You California," directed by Mrs. Parker, and then the speaker of the afternoon was introduced, Dr. E. C. Moore, president of the University of California, Southern Branch. He said:

"What we are doing today is very significant, more significant than our imaginations will let us believe. We are assembled to break ground for a great new high school. It will cost $600,000, and will be useful in proportion to its great cost. If our imaginations were good enough we would see that first class graduating class through the years imagination would tell us

GLENDALE CREDIT ASSOCIATION FOR PAGEANT

Endorses Plan for Pageant at Dinner in Glenn Inn

The Glendale Credit association of Glendale endorsed the Pageant of Progress at its meeting yesterday noon at the Glen Inn.

Mr. Levitt, the promoter, was present and set forth his proposition, which in brief is to the effect that he will put on an exhibition similar to the one held here a year ago, and in which many merchants took part. Telegrams from reliable business men in many eastern states indicated that Mr. Levitt is thoroughly reliable and a good man to tie to if a live, clean exhibition is wanted. He states that he would advertise the event very extensively throughout Southern California and that Glendale would gain much favorable publicity from the event. Jesse Smith, president of the chamber of commerce, stated that the board of directors of the chamber were in favor of the show, but that they had no intention to sponsor it unless the business men wanted the exhibition. In answer to a direct question from D. L. Gregg, Mr. Levitt stated that it would be possible to conduct the pageant if the business men did not feel inclined to take space, but it developed in the discussion which followed that many received good results from the last show, and it is likely many local men will again take space. Secretary Rhoades stated that the chamber of commerce would receive 50 per cent of the gross receipts which would be used as an advertising fund by the chamber of commerce. The full details of the pageant will be worked out later by committees from both the chamber of commerce and credit men.

JESSUP DAIRY STOCK ESCAPED DOG'S FANGS

Investigation of Recent Attack by Animal Shows Cattle Unharmd

An investigation of the attack on the dairy herd of the Jessup Dairy by a rabid dog yesterday was conducted by the Glendale city health department.

The dog did not bite any cattle in the herd, but would undoubtedly have done so had he not been killed by Mr. Jessup. The dog was examined at the state laboratory and it was found to have had a well developed case of rabies.

While the dog did not bite any cattle in the herd, city health department officers state that even had the cattle been attacked the bite of the rabid dog would not affect the milk.

He wished the new high school every success and said: "The only regret I have is that I will not be able to attend when it is completed. I take great pleasure in doing my part in the ground breaking."

This completed the program except for a spontaneous recessional march by the band. The shovel, a new one which had been dedicated to the day, was carried home to be secretly preserved as a souvenir of the most significant day in the history of Glendale Union High School.

INCREASED ENROLLMENT IN SCHOOLS

Gain of 446 Over That of September Opening Is Reported

ALL SHOW GROWTH

Figures Are Net Without the Graduating Class of 129

Enrollment figures for city schools as turned in to Superintendent White are not complete, because so many children are out of school on account of colds and other disorders. One room in the Columbus Ave. school was closed by the city health officer before the term ended on account of cases of measles, but it is expected the quarantine will be lifted by the end of the week. Notwithstanding these conditions the enrollment for the twelve grade schools shows a gain of 446 more than when the schools opened September 18, and that in spite of the 124 graduated from intermediates.

Following are the figures: Cerritos, now 234; September, 208. Wilson, now 504; September, 524. Broadway, now 392; September, 362. Magnolia, now 46; September, 30. Columbus, now 556; September, 542. Grand View, now 142; September, 96. Glendale Avenue, now 340; September, 197. Doran, now 297; September, 230. Colorado, now 336; September, 232. Acacia, now 290; September, 342. # YOUTHS CHARGED WITH AUTOMOBILE THEFT

Davis and Boyer Are Held for Preliminary Hearing

George W. Davis of 538 Wall street, Los Angeles, and George W. Bowyer, 316 South Glendale avenue, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Lowe on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to Mrs. Bowyer, mother of one of the defendants. They were each placed under $2000 cash bail or $4000 property bond. Being unable to furnish either, they were taken to the county jail in Los Angeles by Detective Sergeant Simmons at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Davis and Bowyer were arrested in Sacramento with the automobile, which the authorities state, they stole. At the time, it is claimed, they were endeavoring to trade the machine for two motorcycles. The preliminary hearing of the pair will be held before Judge Lowe at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Bowyer and Davis were brought from the north by Officers Royle and Blake. When on the way home, the party reached Fresno the machine in which they were riding broke down. The officers were compelled to put the machine in a garage at Fresno, and make the remainder of the trip with the prisoners by rail.

BIKE STOLEN

A bicycle belonging to D. B. Fisher, 127 1/2 South Adams street, was stolen from the rear of 122 1/2 North Olive street at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

CUSTODIAN OF TEMPLE SUCCOMBS

"Dad" Ravenscroft, Beloved Mason, Passes to His Rest

DEVOUT TEMPLAR

Chas. Peckham Is Called From North to Officiate at the Funeral

"Dad" Ravenscroft is dead, and there is mourning in the temple of masonry. The comrade and sojourner to whom the ties of brotherhood were so dear, and who had for all who came a smile of welcome which made the lodge home a home indeed, has gone hence to that larger brotherhood of the departed.

Monday afternoon about 2 o'clock the end came, with his wife and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, at his bedside.

He had once expressed the wish that when the summons came to him, "Charley" Peckham might be there to conduct the Knights Templar service for the dead. That wish will be respected, and Mr. Peckham is now on the way from the north to perform the last service for his friend.

Unity lodge and Unity chapter as well as the Glendale Commandery will participate in the service, for he served them all, and loved them all.

The service will be held in the First Methodist church, Wednesday, at 2 o'clock, with interment in the Masonic plot in Forest Lawn memorial park.

Charles Henry Ravenscroft was born in New Albany, Indiana, May 31, 1855, and for fifty years that city was his home. He was a railroad man, a conductor on what is now the Louisville Southern railroad. He came to know, seemingly, every man, woman and child along the line and was loved by them.

It was in New Albany that he became a Mason and entered into the bonds of brotherhood which were to mean so much to him. Whatever changes were necessitated by his life as a railroad man, never could he be persuaded to change his Masonic affiliations until he came to Glendale nine years ago. He loved this city and its people from the beginning of his stay here, and almost at once proposed the transfer of his membership, which was effected, and the interests of the Masonic orders here have ever since been his chief interest in life, particularly since he was made custodian of the temple. It was a service to which he gave the devotion of an Acolyte.

The transfer of his membership was performed as appreciated by his brother Masons who realize that he was a man in a thousand, and never again can they expect to receive such service of love as he rendered. In his death they have lost a dear friend.

NEW FINANCIAL ORGANIZATION STARTS HERE

People's Finance & Thrift Company of Glendale Is Organized

Our city is to have a new financial organization. The People's Finance and Thrift company of Glendale has had a meeting at the Glendale State Bank attended by a number of prominent citizens, and the proposition of organizing an industrial bank to finance by means of loans, salaried people and others without regular banking facilities, under the "Winnsett System," was explained in detail by Major Shindler of the organizing company.

At that meeting announcement was made that temporary headquarters for organization work had been secured at 113 East Broadway, a permanent location to be selected at the first organization meeting of stockholders.

Major Shindler explained that the Glendale institution is to be a separate, entirely local affair with a capital of $75,000, which will be owned, controlled and operated by Glendale citizens. It is used in fourteen banks in cities in California and in many other states.

The Glendale State Bank will act as escrow agent during the organization. As stated, the institution is for the purpose of financing by means of ten-month loans, salaried workers and others who do not have the advantage of regular banking facilities and it will in no way conflict with the work of the state and national banks.

The temporary headquarters will be in charge of F. J. Williams, organization supervisor of the system who will be glad to explain it in detail to all inquirers.

Statistics show that during the year 1921 more than $100,000,000 was loaned on this plan in the United States to salaried and other earners. The average loan was $170, and the loss ratio was 1-10 of 1 percent.

CARPENTERS HOLD SOCIAL EVENING AT K. P. HALL

Organization of Electrical Workers Is Reported a Success

A large attendance marked the meeting of Carpenters' local, No. 563, held last night at the K. of P. hall at Park avenue and Brand boulevard. Among the speakers of the evening were P. H. Romey and Alfred Baines, who talked on the Co-operative Shoe and Service association. Leon Shook, representing the electrical workers, gave a talk on the successful movement in the electricians' organization. The Butchers' representative, Mr. Hambacher, also gave a talk.

The program for the evening included a piano solo by Mrs. Robert Hamilton; saxophone solo, Richard Buck, Jr.; piano duet by Mrs. F. J. Willett and Mrs. Arline Johnson. Later music for dancing was furnished by Brown's orchestra. Mrs. Jack Hall, president of the Women's Union Label league, and Mrs. Buggs, president of the Women's auxiliary No. 62 of the Carpenters, and Mrs. Keenan of the auxiliary, gave short talks during the evening.

Oliver J. Gaboury of the Atelier des Arts school of dancing at 347 North Brand boulevard, gave an exhibition of a waltz-clog, Irish jig and other dance numbers which were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the members of the Women's Union Label league.

DO WOMEN NEED POLITICAL TRAINING?

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 7.—"Women are not educated for politics and they should not get their political education practicing in public," Mrs. Frederick P. Moore, of Pittsburgh, declared in an address to women here.

"I believe women should lend their efforts to legislation to better the conditions of former service men. They should let the men do the rest," Mrs. Moore said.

"If all good men voted, the women would not have had to take up politics to accomplish what the men have not done."

"Women need more experience and the only way they can get it is in schools of politics. We have many classes that teach women the needs of the day and the ways of getting them. All women should attend them."

GLENDALÉ DAILY PRESS PLAN FOR CIVIC CENTER APPROVED BY READERS

Plan for Furnishing Glendale With a Civic Center Through the Sale of the Present High School Site to the City, Wins Approval

The editorial of Friday, "Let's Stop Rocking the Boat," pointing to the economical use of the city's resources in civic center material, created a deep impression on the city and the minds of taxpayers who are seeking to conserve the finances of the city against further exploitation.

For the benefit of those who did not have an opportunity to study the plan in full it will be repeated in tomorrow's issue of the Glendale Daily Press.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bright, 319 North Maryland avenue: "We do not favor the idea of using the site on East Broadway for a civic center at the price quoted. It seems more sensible to purchase the present high school site for that purpose and it is more centrally located."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chambers, 736 South Glendale avenue: "We are in favor of using the present high school site as a civic center. It is more centrally located than the proposed site on East Broadway and we believe that it would be for the best interests of the city."

Mrs. W. E. Cleveland, 417 West Lomita avenue: "I am in favor of using the present high school site and buildings for a civic center. It seems to be much more centrally located and I believe it would be a fine use to make of the buildings."

Mrs. L. P. Clover, 947 North Louise street: "I believe that if the present high school site is not needed for grade school purposes that it might be a good plan to use it for a civic center."

UNIFORM HIGH GIRLS' DRESSES IS PROPOSED

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 6.—The Washington legislature will consider plans and specifications for high school girls' clothing.

A bill drawn by Representative Kennedy specifies high school girls must observe the following minimums in clothing:

Minimum cut of waist below collar bone, two inches. Maximum distance between floor and hem of skirt, 14 inches.

Sleeves must cover the elbow. School principals must set maximum prices for dresses to be worn in their schools.

"This is not a 'reform measure,'" said Kennedy. "It is designed to help the girls who cannot afford luxuries in dress."

NO ADVANCEMENT MEETING

Because the membership of the Glendale Advancement association is so keenly interested in the project for the hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, which the organization has been promoting, and the hotel committee is to have a public meeting at the city hall Wednesday evening, there will be no luncheon meeting of the association this week.

EXERCISE FOR POISE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

The great prerequisite for poise is, of course, the right mental attitude. One must attain self-mastery to make one's self really poised.

But a not-to-be-despised auxiliary to both self-mastery and poise is physical fitness.

Other things being equal, the physically fit man always finds it easier to be well poised than the man physically below par. More than this, there are certain physical exercises which may be taken to advantage by all who would make physical fitness contribute specifically to the gaining of poise.

One such exercise is that of controlled slow breathing. To habituate one's self to breathe slowly and deeply, at convenient intervals every day, may be to change one's self from a nervous, excitable person to one of genuinely composed bearing, poised both inwardly and outwardly.

An acquaintance of my own comes to mind as I write. When I first knew him, in years long gone, he was of a curiously excitable disposition. It needed little to send him ballooning, as the phrase is. He was the last person one would think of in connection with the word poise.

Yet recently, when I met him after a prolonged separation, I was astonished by his serenity and ease of manner. To my blunt question as to how he had effected this miracle of a change in temperament, he made answer:

"Partly through learning to look at things more sensibly. But partly also by discovering the value of slow and deep breathing."

"Every morning and every night, and at times during the day, I give myself about twenty deep respirations, standing erect with my head thrown slightly back."

"Slowly I fill my lungs with air, slowly I exhale it. The first effect of this was to increase my resistance to fatigue. Later I found it was increasing also my power of nerve control."

"There still are times when I am not nearly so well controlled as I should like to be. But whereas these times used to be the regular thing they now are the exceptional. And I credit the improvement to slow, deep breathing."

For centuries, it may be recalled, sages of the Far East have urged deep breathing as a means of bringing one's thoughts and one's emotions under firm control. Modern sages, especially medical sages, extol its health-building virtue.

"Most of us," they insist, "breathe too quickly and not deeply enough. That is one of the principal reasons most of us are not nearly so fit as all ought to be."

Also, possibly, it is one of the principal reasons most of us are not nearly so poised as we ought to be.

BIG COMMUNITY SING SET FOR FEB. 26

Volunteer Song Leaders' Institute to Be Welcome Visitor

At the Glendale Community Service volunteer song leaders' music institute held at the high school music room last night with Alexander Stewart, Pacific coast music organizer for National Community Service in charge, a committee was appointed to arrange for a big community sing to be held at the high school auditorium on Monday night, February 26. In connection with the sing there will also be a community music program. Everyone is invited to attend. Mr. Stewart will direct the singing.

The music committee of Glendale Community Service also announced that visitors are welcome at these song leaders' institute sessions of the community music class held every Monday and Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the high school music room. In addition to the practical work in song leading, Mr. Stewart is discussing at each session topics which are of interest to the broader development of music in the life of the community. Some of the topics to be discussed at the remainder of the institute meetings are "Community Music and the Church," with special reference to the influence of community singing on congregational singing. "The Organization of Community Chorus and Choral Societies," "Music in Industry," "The Organization of Music Weeks, Music Memory Contests, Community Orchestras and other features of the Community Music Movement." Visitors are cordially welcome at any of the sessions without enrolling as regular members of the class. The class will continue meeting up to and including Friday evening, February 23. The music committee of Glendale Community Service will soon have available for use here 2500 copies of the song leaflets published by Community Service, Inc., for use in community singing.

Society LODGES - CLUBS - CHURCHES

DR. ROBERT M'LEAN CAT CLUB MEETS AT ASHCROFT HOME PREACHES STRONG SERMON

The Presbyterian church people Sunday morning listened to a weighty and heart-stirring message from Dr. Robert M. McLean, superintendent of the southwest division of home missions, which covers the whole of the work. He took as his text Christ's words: "I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished!" He said in part: "These were the words of a Man looking out upon multitudes lost in sin—a Man who cared. In these days we don't care enough. I should worry! expresses the common concern. We don't care as Jesus did for need; what can get hold of us?"

"Many Mexicans are living among us. Of late, since this has become the white spot for them, they have been drifting hither from all places eastward, so their numbers have much increased in a short time in and near Los Angeles. In the city their homes are extremely crowded, and child mortality is high.

Their paramount need is Jesus Christ. Provide milk and what you will, unless you provide Christ, all else falls short. When He comes in, then everything else changes for them for the better.

"The largest Christian church among them is the one in Los Angeles, the Church of the Divine Savior. It is housed in their old mission school building, which has been fixed over for this use as best they could. It seats about 200, but they fill it more than full, people standing at windows and others going away—coming to hear about Jesus. The Christian Endeavor meets in an upper room which is becoming precarious by insufficient strength. What would you say to these young people? Stop? It's a problem.

"They are courageously doing for themselves. They are aiming at self-support very soon, and even more. But that church can by no means meet alone the immense need and responsibility that has come upon it. The sort of prayer one may hear those Mexican pastors pray! They verily lay hold on the feet of God, and the results are scores coming to God.

"There's a special glory about home missions. You can pray and you can give, but also you can do. When your heart is straitened, then you have got to do. The gulf divides between you and them. A remarkable letter came this week from a woman in Ohio: 'A year hence we will go to our orange grove in California. It is going to be my task to care for our many Mexican laborers. What shall I do to get ready? We must give them Jesus Christ.'

HUGE SHOE SALE OPENS WEDNESDAY AT KAFATERIA

The biggest shoe sale ever put on by the Kafateria Shoe Store, 126 North Brand, in Glendale, will start tomorrow. The big display advertisement on page 2 of this issue gives full details, and an array of bargains that should bring the biggest shoe business to the Kafateria it has had since opening in Glendale. It will be noticed that this is a "$2 sale," and the shoes offered at this price are sold even at the Kafateria as regular values for much more. Hence, when it is announced that shoes are to be sold for $2 this will be an event that is indeed out of the ordinary. It will be noticed that the stock offered is picked from the best lines, stylish and up-to-date.

In speaking of the sale, Manager Cushman said: "Every once and a while we put on a real sale. We sell ordinarily at prices that are not duplicated anywhere else, but when we put on a sale the public can depend that they are going to get values that will make them sit up and take notice. We now have 12 shy willies in Southern California, and we are going to establish several more, the latest store being put in at Stockton. With our 12-store-buying-power we are able to get hold of big shipments of shoes and by paying cash we get them at prices that enable us to sell away below the average store handling the same grade of shoes. Mr. Glass, owner of the Kafateria Shoe Stores, is on the job all the time buying for his big stores, pays cash and knows shoe values also. Many have asked us how we can afford to sell good shoes at such low figures. The above explanation, coupled with the fact that we believe in many sales and small profits, explains why we sell shoes so reasonable. I hope every man and woman in Glendale and vicinity will visit our store during this sale, whether they buy or not. We want to get acquainted with you and we want you to see our goods. We know we can save you money, but we want you to convince yourself of this fact."

Since opening here the Kafateria Shoe Store has done a big business. Mr. Cushman has demonstrated that he is here to serve the people. If anything goes wrong he always makes good, and the big increase in the business indicates that he is selling goods at the right price and giving service that serves.

ASKS INSURANCE AGAINST IDLE TIME

EAST LANSING Mich., Feb. 6.—Unemployment insurance for workers, as proposed in a bill now before the Wisconsin legislature, is another step toward taking the risk out of industrial life which will eventually find general application throughout the country, according to David Friday, president of the Michigan Agricultural College and nationally known authority on economic subjects.

The Wisconsin bill proposes to protect laborers against unemployment through a mutual insurance company in which the employers would be stockholders. Premiums would be paid by the employers, and in turn the company would pay all benefits to the laborers.

"The principal of unemployment insurance is economically sound and just," President Friday said. "The working man has just as much right to be insured against loss of his wages, due to conditions over which he has no control, as the merchant has to be protected against the loss of his place of business by fire."

"The principal of insurance is to distribute losses among a large number of individuals, so that each one's share will be small. Insurance is now being issued on risks, which were not thought of a few decades ago, and many other risks, such as unemployment, will be added to the list."

"Before fire insurance became general, there were some skeptics who thought people would burn their property to collect insurance. Now, there may be a belief that unemployment insurance will cause workmen to want to be out of jobs in order to collect their insurance. A practical working out of the problem will not lead to such malingering on the part of employees."

"The Wisconsin unemployment insurance proposal is an experiment, and as such should be watched by other states before they adopt similar measures."

INCOME TAX FACTS WORTH KNOWING WELL

Income Tax Facts—No. 1

Revenue officers are visiting every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for the year 1922. Information concerning the date of their arrival and the location of their offices may be obtained by writing the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives.

Forms for filing returns of individual net income for the year 1922 are being sent to taxpayers who filed returns for the year 1921. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15, 1923. The forms, 1040A for filing returns of net income $5000 and less and 1030 for filing returns of net income in excess of $5000, may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors.

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1922 was $1000 or more or whose gross income was $5000 or more and of every married person whose net income was $2000 or more or whose gross income was $5000 or more. Careful study of the instructions on the forms will greatly aid in making a correct return.

Income Tax Facts—No. 2

In the making of his income tax return for the year 1922, a taxpayer, if single, is allowed an exemption of $1000. A married person, or head of a family whose net income for the year 1922 was $5000 or less is allowed an exemption of $2500. The exemption allowed a married person or head of a family whose net income was in excess of $5000 is $2000. A head of a family is a person who actually supports one or more persons living in his or her household who are closely related to him or her by blood marriage or adoption.

An additional credit of $400 is allowed for each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon the taxpayer for chief support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective. A single man whose net income for 1922 was $2,000 and who supports in his home an aged mother would have no tax to pay, but would nevertheless be required to file a return. The fact that a person's income may be not taxable by reason of the exemptions does not nullify the requirement to file a return if his income was within the prescribed figures—$1000 if single and $2000 if married.

The normal tax is 4 per cent on the first $4000 of net income in excess of the exemptions, and 5 per cent on the remaining net income. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four installments due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Income Tax Facts—No. 3

The revenue act of 1921 provides that an income tax return shall be filed by every person, married or single, whose gross income for the year 1922 was $5000 or more. Broadly speaking, gross income includes all amounts received by the taxpayer during the year from salary or wages, or from "business, trade, profession or vocation," dealing in property, or the transaction of any business carried on for profit. Net income, upon which the tax is assessed, is gross income less certain specified deductions for business expenses, losses, bad debts, taxes, contributions, etc.

ROUTE OF THE SANTA MONICA OR HYPERION PASS BOULEVARD TO THE SEA

Picture of the new Santa Monica boulevard, via the Hyperion Pass, connecting Glendale boulevard with the present entrance to Glendale from Los Angeles.

This new highway is a direct line from Sanborn Junction at Sunset boulevard, and is planned to connect with Santa Monica boulevard, which name it will bear when completed. The project was initiated some months ago by the various associations along Santa Monica boulevard, with the object of giving an outlet to the northwest, directly through Glendale, and the plans for paving about 1 1/2 miles of the new route are now nearly completed in the engineer's office in Los Angeles.

This new boulevard will be 80 feet wide with 40 feet of concrete pavement and will unquestionably be the best entrance road yet enjoyed by this city. Another item of equal, if not greater importance, is the fact that the grade for about two thousand feet will be only 3 1/2 percent and the balance of the 2 1/2 miles only 1 1/4 percent.

The plans for this new road, as will be seen by the insets on the illustration, call for a viaduct combining with a new Ivanhoe bridge at Glendale boulevard and the river, which will permit the traffic to enter and leave the main line on Glendale boulevard without crossings or stops.

The crossing of Riverside Drive on the west side of the Los Angeles river is made on the proposed viaduct and when approaching Santa Monica boulevard the plan calls for an archway under Sunset boulevard.

It will be possible to go from Brand and Broadway to Sanborn Junction on Sunset boulevard in about ten minutes, and if desiring to continue to the beaches the direct route and splendid grade of Santa Monica boulevard is available. This new boulevard will attract thousands of travelers to our city and will probably in the near future be the most used of any route from Los Angeles to Glendale.

The opportunity to Glendale lies in the chance to cooperate with the various chambers of commerce from Santa Monica to Hollywood, that are now bending their energies to the accomplishment of this new artery.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The following pertinent letter concerns one of the most important questions at issue before the people of Glendale and should be carefully read by every person interested in the conduct of the schools of our city:

To the Glendale Daily Press: The March elections to memberships in school boards, now only a month off, should strengthen interest in the discussion of the proposed merger of the two systems of Glendale in the light of possible feasibility and efficiency.

I believe it is conceded that on account of the fact that there are two boards or governing bodies, there is some lost motion, a lack of coherence between the grades and the high school.

It is very desirable that the school system should be one instead of two, in order that courses of study may be uninterrupted and that similar lines of work in the grades and in the high school may be under the same supervision. Furthermore, with one board or governing body the future development of the school system would be planned as a whole and not as two separate units.

The merger would also result in greater economy as well as efficiency. The overhead expense of running two systems is sure to be greater than that of running one.

It occurs to me that in the coming election there is a chance for an expression of a sentiment for a closer alignment. At the elections one vacancy on the high school board is to be filled. On the board of education two are to be elected. I would suggest that one of the remaining members of the board of education be a candidate for election as a member of high school board of trustees and two members of the high school board who are to remain in office run for election to the board of education. If these candidates should be elected the boards governing both educational units would be practically identical in personnel, or so far as three members could make them.

The funds of the grammar schools and the funds of the high school would be maintained in separate treasuries. Nevertheless, the elected interlocking board members would be a majority in the interest of the entire system.

Let us have discussion on this subject.

Mallory-Lenglen Fight Is On Again

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—She may not be a popular champion, but Mrs. Mollie Mallory, the queen of the American tennis court, is a good sport.

If she did not have the reputation of being such she might be thought of as scheming for her sudden decision to go gambling after her rival, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, this winter, instead of waiting until summer.

Her campaign, however, may be regarded as strategic. Mlle. Suzanne takes her five winter tournaments as sort of social activities that enable her to disport her new wardrobe and get into condition leisurely for the hard summer campaign ending at Wimbledon.

Opposition in the winter tournaments for the flashy French queen has always been so negligible that she could revel in the exhibition of her charms and her rare skill at tennis.

The dashing Suzanne has been taking things even more easily this year. She has a heart to look after now and competition without the urge of strong opposition sometimes becomes a bore for the temperamental athlete.

Anyway, Suzanne was taken by surprise recently when she was almost defeated by the English star, Mrs. Beamish, and later her escape from young Miss Dorothy Turner-Laing, was just as close. The tennis critics said that Suzanne wasn't on her game, but that she was a wise little champion in working up by degrees for the defense of her title at Wimbledon.

All of a sudden, then, up pops Mrs. Mallory with the announcement that she is going to Europe the first week of February to compete in the same five tournaments and that she was not going to play at Wimbledon.

While she would not admit of any personal designs, Mrs. Mallory did not deny the possibility of meeting the French girl in one of the five tournaments.

Mrs. Mallory has been planning for a long time to engage in the mid-winter classics and it is not her fault that the French girl is not on her top form.

quests for seats will be cleared through this office. Special trains will carry many local parties to the film capital to attend Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian theater this week while scores of others will travel by motor, for it is rumored that this week might be the last of "Robin Hood in Hollywood."

SOLVE WHEAT SMUT PROBLEM

"The smut problem in Washington wheat is at last on the road to solution," says E. F. Gaines, farm crops professor at the State College of Washington. "It may be 10 or 20 years before smut entirely disappears, but the end is in sight."

From six many immune selections developed the one best adapted to a particular locality may replace the susceptible variety now being grown.

"The college has been working on smut resistance since 1914, and has tested more than 500 varieties. Many hybrids have been made and are now in process of being selected and tested. Many are not fit. Perhaps a hundred thousand plants are discarded each year, but a few choice ones are preserved, and the development of these promises to revolutionize seed treatment practices."

"To be valuable for general production, a wheat must have a combination of many desirable characteristics in delicate balance that will breed true from generation to generation. Resistance to smut disease is a very important characteristic. It is this quality that has caused Turkey and Marquis to increase in popularity as they have in the past three years."

"The breeding work at the college shows there are many kinds of resistance in wheat, each inherited independently of the others. This offers an almost infinite number of possibilities for producing a variety of wheat that will not smut and at the same time will have all the other desirable qualifications. Four strains being tested by the experiment station have shown for three years now that they were immune from smut in spite of the most severe attempts to infect them."

"One of these, called Smutproof, seems to have commercial possibilities. It is winter hardy, of good milling quality, and yields well. It has been selected from a hybrid of Turkey and Florence, made in 1915. This and many of its sister types are much more resistant than either of the parent types. During the past seven years this selection has never shown more than a trace of smut, even when seed was blackened with smut before planting. The average yield in the cereal nursery the past four years has been slightly more than 40 bushels per acre."

"The three other immune wheats were isolated by selection from comparatively susceptible types. They belong to the bread wheat class, but are not adapted to local conditions on account of weak straw and low yield. They may be valuable, however, for hybridizing with other varieties with stiff straw and high yield."

"Many varieties have been tested for yield, quality, smut resistance, etc., at the experiment station, and a list of the wheats best adapted to a particular locality will be furnished upon request by the farm crops department."

'BROKEN CHAINS' IS TRUE DRAMA WELL GIVEN

It is easy to understand why "Broken Chains," the feature at the Glendale theater, won the first prize of ten thousand dollars in the scenario contest conducted by Goldwyn Pictures corporation and the Chicago Daily News. This is an all-round fine production, intensely dramatic in theme, well cast and beautifully directed.

Malcolm McGregor, who attracted considerable attention for his fine work in "The Prisoner of Zenda," has the leading male role, that of a wealthy young Easterner, Peter Wyndham, who undergoes a spiritual regeneration and learns the meaning of courage through love. McGregor was a fine choice for this role, and he succeeds admirably in bringing out its psychological aspects.

Colleen Moore undoubtedly reaches the high point of her career in her characterization of the part of Mercy Boone, the girl wife of a brutal outlaw ranchman, played by Ernest Torrence. Torrence's performance is as magnificent a piece of screen villainy as we have ever seen, almost fearless in its realism.

The whole cast is a particularly strong one. The beautiful Claire Windsor, now under contract with Goldwyn, is a delight in the part of a New York society girl. Among the others are Beryl Mercer, who is well remembered for her performance on the New York stage in "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals"; James Marcus and Leo Willis.

Allen Holubar directed this big production for Goldwyn.

This week has been dedicated to the cities and towns of Southern California by Sid Grauman, the master showman, who in recognition of the moral support given him in his various theatrical enterprises by the people of the surrounding districts, has termed the ensuing seven days, 1923 Suburban Week.

A mail order department to handle the out-of-town demands for reservations will be maintained at the theater all week and written, telephoned and telegraphed re-

SUBMERGED AND FORGOTTEN

From twelve millions of organized workmen of Germany petition reaches the congress of the United States for help. "American honor asserted at this time," says the petition, "can save us and the world from the inevitable disaster." The petition also cites the fact of the German workmen's willingness to accept complete disarmament.

It would be hard to imagine a greater depth of pathos. Germany, with all of Europe, apparently, rolls on towards destruction. Indications are for war, the paralysis of production and industry, the effacement of culture; with every energy bent on making the world a place of horror and abiding hatred. Malignant greed, measureless stupidity, a cruelty that is beyond defining, a folly so gross that no word may be found to describe it, are the elements that give impetus to a movement in the presence of which humanity stands helpless, able only to frame useless protest. Europe seems to have elected ruin as its portion. If such is its choice, appeal to America is vain. This country could not stay the dreadful tide. It may deplore, it may pity, it may adjure. Doing this, it seems unable to do more. If the spectacle of ruin shall be staged finally, mourning and appalled, the western continent will have no potency to prevent the culmination.

America went once to the rescue of Europe. There was dire need and there was definite belief that interference would be effective, and so events proved. At that time Europe was divided into two factions. The defeat of one meant the triumph of the other, the end of war, the beginning of a peace that it was fondly hoped would be lasting. That peace, grounded on terms hastily devised, was momentary. Now Europe teems with hostile factions. There is no real friendship between any two. Were the United States to interfere, it would have before it the task of subduing all Europe. It would have to oppose its old allies and its former foes. The undertaking of the task is unthinkable.

Moral suasion achieves nothing with a mob. Financial pressure could not be exercised. If Europe wants to fight, it can fight while there is forage in any field, or wealth to be looted. After the exhaustion of these supplies, Europe will be a chaos beyond redemption for many generations.

Yet comes this petition, from the men who would have to do the fighting. They are not belligerent. They have no desire to kill or be killed at the behest of some sinister influence higher up. They have been submerged, and by the politicians blindly bent on sending civilization crashing they have been forgotten, save as potential soldiers.

A starving Europe is in prospect. When famished millions turn on their masters, that will be a fearful day.

MAJORITY RULE

The spirit of American institutions is expressed in the theory that the majority shall rule. To this even the minority assents, reserving the right to expand into a majority if it can. Meanwhile it accepts the inevitable and bides its own time. There are some exceptions. In exclusive clubs it may be that a single opposing vote will exclude a candidate. The jury system represents a second exception. The exclusive club may do as it pleases without question; the jury is a public affair and its effectiveness an intimate public concern. That it should continue to contravene ordinary sentiment, as applied to other matters, is not so wise a course as longer to pass unquestioned.

Lawyers, laymen and to a marked extent, the judiciary, have endorsed the idea of permitting a three-fourths vote of the jury to be decisive. The demand for an unanimous verdict has resulted in countless miscarriages of justice. Such a demand places great power in the hands of a stupid, prejudiced or corrupted juror. To empanel a jury free from all the weaknesses indicated is a difficult, and might easily be an impossible task.

Records of the courts of Los Angeles county show that in case after case a jury has stood three to nine or two to ten. Perhaps the larger number was for conviction, perhaps for acquittal. In either contingency, there was a clear showing that the policy of requiring perfect agreement led to the ultimate freeing of the guilty, or the holding of the presumably innocent, to be tried again, and finally released after expensive and wearisome re-trial.

It is believed that persons guilty of serious crimes have been loosed on the community despite the fact that all but two or three jurors voted for conviction, and in this were upheld by the evidence as interpreted by intelligent observers.

GIVING YOUTH ITS CHANCE

Judge Hahn, a kindly man, is to have jurisdiction over the juvenile cases in the superior court of this county. He says that he intends to make an investigation of each case. The records show that youthful offenders have appeared in court as many as nine times and in each instance been given probation. The judge intimates a disbelief in the merit of such leniency. There are youths who through such experiences have learned to esteem arrest as a sort of jocular episode, having no real meaning, and certainly not setting up in them a desire to reform. Police have learned the futility of arresting tough lads, knowing the result will be the release of the prisoners, and a waste of their own time.

The most effective training is received in earlier years. If in this period the individual learns that crime does not involve penalty the lesson has to be unlearned later, and it is difficult to unlearn. Sending erring youth to institutions is a course that is to be undertaken only with regret, and yet it is a wise course when it saves from a prison experience in after days. The youngster who is arraigned before the bar time after time, and fails to be impressed, needs definite and perhaps prolonged restraint. The knowledge that punishment awaited might inhibit his dubious activities, and keep him from becoming the hardened and habitual criminal.

CURING THE DRUG HABIT

Students of the drug habit have learned that an early effect upon the victim is destruction of the moral stamina. All power to resist is lost, and not only this, but all desire to resist, disappears. The addict has but a single purpose. This is to procure the drug. To such end he is ready to steal or murder, doing either with a complete nonchalance that often is quite baffling to the observer.

Recently a woman who had been in prison for violation of the narcotic law, and who long had been an addict, emerged apparently perfectly cured. She was glad to be free of the former bonds, and grateful for the jail experience that had freed her. She asserted that the cure was a very simple process. It consisted solely of deprivation of the poison to which her system had been accustomed. They put her where she couldn't get it. That was all. She suffered much distress for a time. Then her bodily strength began to return, and her will once more to function normally.

The way for the victim of drugs to quit is to quit. Usually the fact that he is unable to do so suggests the usefulness of putting him where he will have to quit regardless of his own wish at the moment. If he lives, he will be grateful. If he dies his fate is far less tragic than if he had regained liberty while still a devotee of the evil practice.

A CHAT ON SCIENCE

By DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON

There was a deadlock between the astronomers and geologists at the beginning of this century. The geologists, having been converted to evolution by Darwin, needed lots of time for the gradual process of the varied forms of life by the gradual process of natural selection, the only process they knew. Then, too, they figured out that it must have taken at least 300,000,000 years to lay the sedimentary rocks and to make the ocean as salty as it is. Man, who is one of the latest settlers on this planet, seems to have been here more than 250,000 years, and the earliest fossils are buried so deep that animal life must have existed some 60,000,000 years at the lowest estimate.

But here the astronomers and physicists interposed a veto on the geologists and paleontologists. "You can't have anything like such a length of time," they said, "for the earth was a molten mass long after the time when you say life began, and was a fiery gas-ball long after you talk of oceans. The earth is the offspring of the sun and the sun itself is only 20,000,000 years old."

This time limit was the estimate of Lord Kelvin, based upon the idea that the sun's heat came from its contraction by gravitation, for no other source of its heat was surmised at that time. He figured out that if all the particles of matter that make up the sun had fallen together from an infinite distance the heat produced by their impact would not be more than enough to keep the sun radiating at its present rate for more than 20,000,000 years.

If, however, somebody should discover another and more abundant source of heat than the shrinkage of the sun, then, of course, the astronomers would be willing to grant the geologists an extension of time for the building up of the world and its inhabitants.

Well, somebody did discover an unknown source of heat abundant enough to satisfy the most extreme demands of the astronomers. This was Madame Curie with her radium, a metal that is continually giving off heat from a secret store within its atom. It appeared then that some of the heavy elements in breaking down into lighter ones, give as radium breaks down into lead and helium, give off large amounts of heat for thousands of years.

It was later found that atoms of a light element might combine together to form a heavier element and likewise give off heat in immense quantities.

For instance, if a pound of hydrogen were to condense to form helium the resulting helium would weigh a little less than a pound, but there would be given off as much heat as would be produced by the burning of 10,000 tons of coal.

Unfortunately no way is known of working this process, so it will not help us out in this winter's coal shortage, but it has helped the astronomers and geologists out of their dilemma. For the astronomers, having now a source of heat sufficient to keep the sun and stars going for as long as time is, they can imagine, can add to be generous with the geologists in the matter of time. Prof. Eddington of Cambridge made this concession handsomely when he said recently:

"Lord Kelvin's estimate of the extent of geological time need not now be taken any more seriously than Archbishop Ussher's and the geologist may claim anything up to 10,000 million years without provoking a murmur from astronomers."

This liberal allowance ought to satisfy the geologists, especially since they have learned from Mendel that evolution may proceed by jumps instead of by the slow accumulation of minute variations which Darwin had in mind.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

"Best" or "Better"

To G. Fornaris: Better is the right word in the following sentence: "Which do you like better (not best), fall, that is to say, autumn, or winter?" Better should be used because only two seasons are compared.

To H. J. Yaxley: Nor is used correctly in the following sentence: "It does not stain, irritate, nor blister the skin." It emphasizes the following thought: nor does it blister the skin.

A Student's Query

"A Reader": "A disagreement came up in class as to what kind of a sentence the following is: 'I gave in although I was right.' Will you kindly tell me if this sentence is a compound sentence or a complex. Is the two independent clauses connected by the conjunction although or is it underlined an adverbial clause of concession?"

Answer: The principal reason for publishing the foregoing letter is to point out the serious blunders committed by the correspondent, not to discuss grammar. Never use the word "a" after discuss. "What kind of sentence" is correct. The kind of "what kind of sentence" has been followed by last two sentences marks. The last sentence should be "Are the two independent clauses." The beginning, "I gave in" being the independent clause, to which is connected the adverbial clause of concession, "although I was right", although being the connecting conjunction.

To G. T. W.: The word alternative should be used only when two ideas are being thought of, not three or more. Alternative, however, is used loosely in connection with three or more ideas.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A boy passes my house. That is out in the suburbs somewhere, we will say.

He walks with a good stride and his head up and he has a clear eye and a good body.

Splendid assets. Because we have but to add the greatest thing of all, good spirit, and we have a combination fit for triumphs.

A good spirit will do well often in a poor body. But it will do a lot better, other things being equal, in a good body.

As they used to say, mens sana in corpore sano. Which is Latin for something much worth while.

Most of us are born with sound minds. And with pretty good bodies. It is rather remarkable that with so many of us born, so many of us are born with so much to be thankful for in the way of mental and physical equipment.

Nature does her work pretty well. Look sometime at a leaf or flower. One in a million or a billion.

Yet beautifully and carefully and painstakingly made. Nature takes a lot of pride in her work. More so than we do.

But to go back to the boy: It chanced that I wanted something done, we will say.

It may have been wood to carry or a lawn to mow or weeds to pull or rubbish to gather and burn.

Or an errand to run. And I say to the boy: "Want to make a little money?"

Which appeals to him of course.

And in response to the same question he said: "I don't know. I can't quite say. Is it hard work? What do I get for it? Do you think I can do it? Will it take me long? Is it the kind of work I like to do? Is it clean work or dirty work?" And so forth.

No bargain is struck. No pay earned. For the Boss does not like to be cross examined too much.

The Boss wants work done promptly and with good spirit.

The pay will in the end take care of itself.

Provided he does not have too much of it given to him.

Which is an evil thing. For it deprives him of the pleasure of earning it.

And the self respect he gets when he earns for himself.

So he looks at me and says: "Sure I do!" Which is bad grammar.

But good spirit. And bad grammar and good spirit will go farther in the world than good grammar and bad spirit.

Grammar is incidental. Spirit is essential.

So then I tell the boy what the work is and say, "Can you do it?"

And he says: "Sure I can! Where is it? When can I go to work? Can I start right now?"

And I am pleased and surprised and gratified and everything like that.

We strike a bargain. And the boy goes to work. Does the work. Gets his pay.

And goes off to save or to spend it. Which is again incidental.

The thing is that he was willing to work, did work, and earned his pay.

It might be that a boy of another type passed.

And in response to the same question he said: "I don't know. I can't quite say. Is it hard work? What do I get for it? Do you think I can do it? Will it take me long? Is it the kind of work I like to do? Is it clean work or dirty work?" And so forth.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Perhaps poor old Doc. Cook has not reached the end of his string yet, he being exceedingly versatile. It may be that the charge that his oil business is crooked grew out of rivalry. The bootlegger who betrayed him perhaps had a grudge. His wife caused him to be chucked into jail. Some wives have spiteful moods. Anyhow, it is fair to give Doc. Cook the benefit of the doubt if there is any doubt.

Long ago when Cook was driving a milk wagon there was nothing to say against him. He became the great non-exploring explorer, and ever since things have been different. He said that he had scaled Mr. McKinley, and within restricted limits got himself believed for a while. He never had scaled that mountain, but was merely telling a scaly yarn.

Later, as well known on two continents, he discovered the north pole without the formality of ever having been near it. This won him decorations, a few free dinners, a chance to make something out of nothing by retailing his purely dream adventures as the real stuff. Got good space rates at that.

The man has had a remarkable career; about the sort of career one might wish on a dearest enemy.

More than a score of years ago Harry Higgins arrived in Tacoma to be a reporter on the Ledger of that city. He died recently as managing editor of the same paper, a position he had filled ably for a long time; a citizen of high standing, with many friends, and the affection of his associates.

When Higgins was sent to report the waterfront as his initial local assignment, he returned to the office and wrote that a ship loading for the Orient had just taken on board 5000 tons of hardtack for the crew. He had seen sacks of wheat hurtled into the hold and some long-shoreman had thus explained what was in them.

Shortly after that, Higgins mentioned a prominent admiralty attorney as a "sea lawyer," a term distinctly opprobrious, but used in all innocence by the reporter. Higgins learned the difference when the traduced legal light came in with blood in his eye.

Perhaps this is not interesting, but only seems so to the man who gave Higgins that first job.

A particularly brutal thug and robber has been identified by his finger prints. This helps some. The next thing is to catch the fellow. By the way, it is worth while to mention that at the time of the crime, the robber was out of prison on parole.

In "The Right Word," a very useful syndicate series quite widely published, this sentence is given as showing proper use of the verb: "The newspaper was lying on the floor."

The author might have added that as to some newspapers they would be lying regardless of the place in which they happened to be.

A correspondent cites an instance in which a man was sent to prison for from five to twenty years for stealing money. The same day another man was fined $500 for selling illicit drugs, paid the money, and went out cheerful, presumably to sell some more. The correspondent complains that this is not justice.

It is not justice. It merely is the law which often cuts a mighty poor figure in its attempt to function as the representative of justice.

In January building permits to the amount of $11,258,517 were issued in Los Angeles, a gain over January of last year of more than three and a quarter millions. Such figures are interesting, particularly as 1922 had been by far the banner year for building.

The showing gains additional interest from the fact that Los Angeles is not developing any faster than the prosperous region that surrounds it.

A man watched the death notices, and then sent a 25-cent fountain pen to the address of deceased, with $3 in charges to be collected. Usually the mourners accepted the statement that the article had been ordered, and paid the bill. At last the faker made the mistake of sending one of his pens to a dead man, who, while alive could not read and didn't know the alphabet. Mourners balked and told the police.

The incident is mentioned just to show that some men are so mean that why they are permitted to live is a constant and irritating puzzle.

Beggars arrested in coast cities are found to be equipped with affidavits as to disability. A common defect is deafness, or the loss of speech. The sufferer hears very well, and talks as often and as loudly as agreeable to him when not on duty as a mendicant.

These beggars are sent out by a sort of Pagan type, who equips them with proof of their imaginary ills, and receives a percentage of the profits.

In this country the man who begs does so only because he prefers begging to work.

Many vials of wrath have been emptied on the French because of the purported presence of colored troops in Ruhr. The reply of France to this is that there is not, and has not been a single colored soldier in the invading army now on German soil.

Decision has been reached that Rector Grant of New York is to escape trial for heresy, and not lose his job. The gentleman openly asserts that he does not believe that which the creed of his church sets forth as the inspired truth.

Freedom of speech seems to be no idle boast.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

One of the theories I've always held is that work is about the nearest thing to an old-fashioned panacea that can be found. It will cure what ails you. I do not mean the sort of work that balances you on a high stool with a shade over your eyes. I mean that sort of work that sends you home at night with an ache in every bone.

"Get so tired that you sleep well each night and eat three meals each day and you'll not have many other troubles," my old man used to say.

Now comes Asta Mober to support the theory. She used to be a prima donna in Sweden and came over here to show our musical folk what Swedish yodeling sounds like. But the operatic soviet would have none of her.

"You are mistaken," they said. "Butter, cheese and farmers—all very good—come from Sweden. But not prima donnas. We never heard of such a thing. Do not slip on the mat as you go out."

She began life over here in a hotel suite and slipped to a boarding house hall room. She gloomed and brooded and wept and sat for hours at the window looking morbidly into the street. By and by her money ran out. She tried to get refined jobs and failed. In order to continue living she went to work as a chambermaid in a hotel. For months she went about sullenly. Her pride ate into her like an acid.

"To think that I—I, Asta Mober—am at work as a chambermaid!"

Then good old hard work cured her. She began to smile. Then she began to sing. Some one heard her, found out about her, and she started on the up-grade again. She may be an American prima donna yet. No one knows.

But it was hard, muscle-stretching, bone-aching, three-meals-and-a-sleep-a-day work that did it for her. Nine times out of ten it cures.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHAT MR. BOYDEN SAID

(New York Times)

The official report of the statement by our unofficial delegate in the reparations commission shows that it was largely "juridical." He speaks of himself as merely a friendly bystander giving personal advice.

From a legal point of view, Mr. Boyden seems to side with the commission as to Germany's default. But he considered the commission's report unsatisfactory because it "should set forth" not merely the fact of the default, but also the "causes of the default and all extenuating circumstances."

The implication was that there were such circumstances and that until these were known there could be found no basis for a fair decision on the part of the governments concerned.

Mr. Boyden went on to state his general conclusion that the report should not have stopped at the consideration of the defaults in coal and wood, but should have dealt with the whole question of the failure of Germany to meet her obligations. It should have explained America's financial conditions would result in further loss to the allies. In saying this he Hearst papers say a good word for England. Doubtless they hated to do it, but there seemed no other way to get a whack at France. And France is annoying Hearst's beloved Germany.

A well known movie star has gone into a convent, which as a publicity stunt probably is unique.

Senator Poindexter is to be ambassador to Peru, where a new field awaits the literary member of the family.

San Francisco started to fill a community chest and caused it to run over. That is practical charity.

Considering the men who head some of the senatorial blocs, it is to be regretted that the word is not spelled with a k.

Senators resent criticism from a British financier, although it is mild compared to some bestowed by their own countrymen.

Mrs. George Jay Gould admits that she and her husband have separated. The public is ready to admit freely that it doesn't care.

Only echoes what the English and, indeed, the French have said—that the total reparations bill must be cut down.

BOOTLEGGER RING ON CANADIAN BORDER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(United Press)—Allegations that most of the American liquor exported to Canada, actually reaches the hands of a bootleggers' ring across the border which smuggles it back into the United States, were contained in a special report submitted to Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes today.

The report, compiled by Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of general prohibi-

"THE OLD DOMINION" was the name adopted by the assembly (burgesses) of Virginia after Charles II became king of England in 1660. When Charles I was beheaded in 1649 many royalists migrated to Virginia. When Charles II acceded to the throne the Virginians promptly and enthusiastically recognized his authority, whereupon Virginia was made a dominion, its coat of arms to take its place beside those of Scotland, Ireland, and England. So the Virginians named the colony "The Old Dominion."

tion agents, from reports of his divisional chiefs in the northern districts, is said to state that there is absolutely no demand in Canada for American liquor either for beverage or non-beverage purposes.

BACON'S REBELLION took place in Virginia in 1675. The Indians were attacking the planters about Jamestown, and Nathaniel Bacon, a young planter, asked Governor Berkeley for an officer's commission to punish them. The governor refused because of ulterior reasons, and Bacon went ahead and successfully routed the Indians. A civil war followed, Jamestown was burned, and the governor was driven out, but Bacon was poisoned (?), the governor returning and taking a bloody vengeance on his followers. However, Berkeley was recalled later. In this incident, 100 years before the Declaration of Independence, the colonial spirit of independence flared forth.

POPULATION OF GERMANY before the war was increasing at the rate of 800,000 annually.

THE ANCESTRAL PEOPLE OF EUROPE were those who thousands of years ago were nomadic tribes living east, and northeast of the Caspian sea. These tribes, which wandered away from their original home and scattered all over Europe and northern India, are called the Indo-Europeans. Their one original language gradually changed into many tongues with certain strains of similarity, as, brother (English); bruder (German); frater (Latin); phrater (Greek); brata (Old Persian); pracar (Tukhar); bhrata (Sanskrit).

THE WATER POWER of the United States is capable of generating about 40,000,000 horse-power. About 25 per cent of this has been developed.

NO GREEN GOODS HERE!

The Circulation of the Glendale Daily Press is operated upon the Little Merchants Plan, which insures a bona fide paid circulation, that is far ahead of the newspaper which allows its subscriptions to "run as long as you wish and pay when you will."

We believe that our advertising columns offer the best medium for presenting the message of Glendale merchants, because we reach the most people. We have editions for Eagle Rock and Burbank. Three daily newspapers with an advertising rate that is not high enough for one daily paper.

Here are the sworn statements required by the government from both Glendale Daily Papers:

THE FACTS IN A NUTSHELL:

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS 4,985

SECOND NEWSPAPER 3,336

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS LEAD
OVER SECOND NEWSPAPER 1,649

But, Dear Reader, since the statements were published in October, THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS has added 715 READERS TO ITS LIST and its circulation now exceeds the sworn statement of the second paper by 2364. Growing some in three months, you say. Well, you're right. Watch us grow during 1923. Watch the advertising columns grow. Glendale has live, progressive merchants and they are using the advertising columns of the Glendale Daily Press to send their message to the people.

"When You Buy Advertising, You Buy Circulation"

MAKING GERMANY PAY INDEMNITY

Roger Babson Summarizes Several Proposed Plans; Sees Present European Condition as Darkness Before Dawn

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Feb. 6.—Roger W. Babson's statement last week on "What's the Matter with France" has aroused widespread comment and criticism.

"It is all right for Babson to preach," writes a high French official, "but it is another thing to collect money that France must get, and get at once. Every week we are going further into debt. Our financial condition forced us into Essen. It was a case of sink or swim. We swam."

Mr. Babson again reiterated his statement that the trouble with Europe was primarily spiritual rather than financial. He still contends that the French tactics in the Ruhr districts are fundamentally wrong and will complicate the problem rather than simplify it. Discussing the actual payment of the reparations, Mr. Babson continues: "Several ways of collecting the $32,000,000 that Germany owes as reparations, have been suggested."

"The French plan is being tried out at present. It promises little in the way of tangible returns. Regardless of how much the French are able to collect at the point of the gun in the Ruhr district, the method they are employing, if continued, are bound to increase hard feelings between France and Germany. They are sowing the seeds for another war."

"The English view approaches the problem from another angle, but Mr. Balfour's suggestion that we cancel one another's debts, and thus reduce greatly the German reparations, is to my mind absolutely unfair. All nations involved, except the United States, are borrowers as well as lenders. The person who is borrowing as much as he is lending can enter into the agreement that all should cancel his debts. He forgives a million dollars and likewise has a million dollars forgiven him. The United States, however, is at the end of the line. These nations owe us $10,000,000,000 and we owe them practically nothing. The mutual cancellation of debts is not a solution to the problem. I believe that an effort toward reason, rather than force, however, is a step in the right direction."

"One of the most feasible solutions suggested so far is that proposed by C. W. Barron, owner of the Wall Street Journal, and Boston and Philadelphia News Bureau. He suggests that a receiver be appointed for Germany and that the matter be handled exactly as that of any other great bankrupt. Secretary Hughes' idea to have a commission of practical bankers, rather than a commission of diplomats and politicians, is a similar step in the right direction."

"If we look at the matter," continued Mr. Babson, "from either of these receivership points of view, we face the real problem. If Germany had $32,000,000,000 in gold it might be a simple matter to collect it, but she has no such amount on hand. Germany has only about $260,000,000 in gold. This means that some method must be devised by which Germany can get the gold with which to pay the reparations. France says that if she cannot pay in gold, she must pay in machinery, coal and other property. But taking away these tools does not help her earning power. It simply makes it harder for her to earn anything. It is like attaching a carpenter's tool kit for a debt. It makes it impossible for him to work or earn anything and he never can pay up."

"Obviously, if the reparations are to be paid, some plan must be worked out which will enable Germany to sell more goods in England, France and the United States, than she is selling today. This suggestion, of course, raises a howl from our manufacturers and the manufacturers in all these other countries. They say that by such a plan Germany would ultimately be the winner rather than the loser because she would ultimately have the trade of the world. They say that this suggested receiver for Germany, if on to his job, would develop great foreign trade and when the receiver was discharged the German nation would still have this tremendous commercial machine. England has thought the thing through to this point and it is this that has made her so anxious to cut down German reparations."

"If such a commission should be appointed and should decide what Germany can pay and will pay, the shock to our commercial and financial organization could be somewhat reduced by having payments begin in small amounts and gradually increase over a period of several years, then gradually decrease again so that the commerce of the world and the financial machinery involved in international trade could adjust itself to the changes."

"The problem is very complex," continues Mr. Babson, "but it does not appear hopeless. Individuals we can all insist that it be handled by a board of commissioners, who are Christian business men—who approach it with the idea of coming to the solution that will be best for the world as a whole. In the interest of future peace, we should protest loudly against any proposals offered by politicians, or others who are interested primarily in getting as much as they can for themselves regardless of the consequences."

"I am not pessimistic about the European tangle. I feel that it will work out some way. Secretary Hughes is making a very good start. Mr. William G. MacAdoo also has some sound suggestions in connection with the matter. Men who were formerly rabid on one side or the other, are gradually show-

DIETRICH REALTY MAKES ADDITION TO STAFF

Although only two weeks old the Dietrich Realty and Construction company is growing apace.

Mr. I. J. Hoover of 1222 East California has joined the company as salesman and builder. Mr. Hoover, during the past four years, has built one hundred and twenty-five homes in Glendale and Eagle Rock. These were the better class of homes and have sold from $6000 up to $20,000. Mr. Hoover is very enthusiastic about Glendale and the real estate business in Glendale and more particularly his association with the Dietrich Realty company. One thing Mr. Hoover knows is the actual value of Glendale property and his advice cannot fail to be of value to his clients.

Mr. B. F. Hawkins, late of Yale Bros., resigned from that company to take the position of business manager in the Dietrich company. Mr. Hawkins from his long and successful experience in banking and more particularly in escrow work is well fitted to handle the details of any realty transaction to the entire satisfaction of clients.

Mr. Joe Castelan, an architect and builder of fifteen years' experience, has joined the construction department. Mr. Castelan comes highly recommended and personally vouched for by Mr. Halstead of the Halstead Lumber company, Charles Chapman building, Los Angeles.

Among the properties sold by the Dietrich Realty company since its organization two weeks ago, are a seven-room house at 1006 East Harvard, a six-room home at 505 Porter street, a hill lot in Eagle Rock, on Ellis street.

DUSTING WHEAT

"The question has been raised as to whether wheat may be dusted with copper carbonate some months previous to seeding time without suffering any injury," says Dr. F. D. Heald of the agricultural experiment station at the State College of Washington.

"In order to test this point four varieties were given the standard treatment (2 oz. per bu.), and germination tests made at intervals in comparison with untreated seed. The treated and untreated seed was planted in flats in the greenhouse, using 200 seed in each lot. Not only was there no injury resulting for the duration of the test, but the dusted grain showed an improved germination over the untreated samples."

"The soil that fills our fields and gardens, what a common and uninteresting thing to talk about, you say. Common, it is true; but rather interesting when properly considered," said Prof. A. Floyd Heck, on the big radio broadcaster at the State College of Washington one night recently.

"Did you ever think what would happen if our faithful soil failed for a season to render her accustomed yield? What if no wheat, no corn, no grass, no pigs, no cows, no milk, no butter, none of a thousand other commodities we eat and wear were produced."

"Food and clothing would soon become scarce, and when this scarcity was acute all commercial activities would slow down and finally stop. The more fertile our fields, the more prosperous and happy we become."

"When God caused the waters to separate upon the earth and the dry land appeared, it was, in all probability, solid rock, not the soil which we know today. The wonderful change of rock to soil has been brought about by the process of decay by which all material things are kept in process of change."

"Did you ever visit an old churchyard, examine the old marble tombstones which have withstood the elements a century or more, and notice how in some cases you could no longer make out the letters? Perhaps, too, you have noticed that a rivulet flowing over a ledge of rocks has, by its water and the sand it carries along, worn away the stone. The balanced rocks of the great west are silent evidence of the cutting action of sand carried by the wind. The present small glaciers in our northern highlands are but miniatures of the great ice sheet which covered North America from the frozen North to the Missouri and Ohio rivers, and ground and mixed everything in its path."

"It is by the action of these—water, wind, ice, and like agents—through perhaps millions of years of our earth's existence, that the stony portion of our soil has been formed. Following the creation of the earth, we read that all kinds of plants were caused to grow. As they grew, and died, and decayed, and became mixed with the stony material, they formed through the untold ages our present soil."

"So you can see that our fertile fields, whose fruit we enjoy today, have not been made in a short time, but are the result of hundreds of centuries of decay."

ing an open-mindedness toward any practical solution. I still insist, however," concluded Mr. Babson, "that the problem is largely spiritual. The good of the United States is ultimately bound up in the good of the world. This applies to France as well as to Germany, to England as well as to France, and to the United States most of all. From those who have most, the most is expected. Statistics show that the World War came upon us because man's intellectual powers had increased so much faster during the last 50 years than his spiritual powers. Our system of control was out of equilibrium. The same condition still exists, and before the financial problems of Europe can be corrected the spiritual condition of Europe must be improved."

General business in the United States meanwhile continues slightly above normal plus 3%, to be exact. The action of foreign exchange and other international factors strongly suggest, that while things are looking very dark in Europe, it is always darkest just before dawn.

RECORD TIMBER CUT REPORTED ON FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—
Breaking all records, the 1922 timber cut of the seventeen national forests of California climbed to 217 million board feet, an increase of 73 percent over 1921, according to report by District Forester Paul G. Redington. Receipts in payment for this timber totaled $663, 000, or an increase of 115 percent over the preceding year. The record sale of the year was in the Lassen national forest, where a billion feet of timber was placed under a 30-year contract with the California Fruit Growers' Supply company. This was the largest timber sale made in any of the 147 national forests of the country.

"National forest stumpage is growing in popularity among lumber owners," said the district forester, "principally because it can be purchased on small advanced payments and because the timber sold is protected by the forest service from fire. 1922 was one of our best timber sale years, and we expect to do a bigger business in 1923. The reason for this increased cut is the exhaustion of the timber supply in other regions, combined with an active lumber market, caused by the wave of home-building that is sweeping the country."

"Twenty-five per cent of the pine timber cut in this state now comes from the national forests," continued Mr. Redington. "Government timber areas when cut over are left in the best possible condition for the production of a new crop of trees. Destructive logging methods are not tolerated on Uncle Sam's forests, and the wisdom of the cutting and slash-disposal regulations imposed by the government is shown by the fact that a number of large timber operators in this state are now putting similar methods into practice on their privately-owned lands. More and more the fact is becoming appreciated that if we are to continue as a nation of wood users we must protect our existing forests and put our idle acres to work growing trees."

The total cut of lumber from the national forests of California for the ten-year period 1913 to 1922, inclusive, amounted to 934 million board feet, valued at $2,254,000 on the stump. Twenty-five per cent of the receipts from the cut of timber are returned to the counties in which the national forests are located, and an additional 10 per cent is expended by the forest service on local road and trail construction.

THE HEROINE

The heroine—I pity her,
In film or book.
What pains and passions stir
Her every look.
Of peace and rest there's not
For her—just strife;
She's cold and now she's hot,
All through her life.

She burns with fever hot,
Then in a trice
Upon the self same spot
She's cold as ice.
She has a mortal chill,
Her blood runs cold,
When she resolves to kill
The villain bold.

Now she is tense with fear,
And now she's limp
And slumps down somewhere near
Like a blown blimp.
Now she is racked with pains,
Now torn with strife,
Blood freezes in her veins,
Gosh, what a life!

Her eyes start from her head,
Her young heart breaks,
Her hectic cheeks are red,
She heaves and shakes
And crumples in a heap.
Pray, Author, gruff,
Let's go and let her sleep,
She's had enough.

DEMAND DRY-PICKED FOWL

"Demand dry-picked fowls; birds scalded for market absorb 14 per cent filthy water and are otherwise undesirable," said Prof. R. V. Mitchell, head of the poultry department at the State College of Washington while giving a dry-picking demonstration at the department's annual open-house, attended by some 300 farmers, farm women, poultrymen and townsfolk interested in the newest equipment and methods.

"A scalded bird, as ordinarily handled, is in worse condition inside of two days than a dry-picked bird that has been shipped 1000 or 1500 miles to market," he optained. He showed experts dry-picked and ready for market, and proved that it was difficult for even an expert poultryman to distinguish between the bird killed yesterday and one kept in cold storage a month or more, if correctly dry-picked.

A flock of 310 pullets was shown which, under the care of students of the poultry department, had made a record of 62 per cent average production for the month of November (an egg a day being the 100 per cent basis of calculation).
The birds were hatched April 28
from eggs donated by a Prosser breeding plant, and cared for entirely by students.

THE HEBREWS
were once Semitic nomadic tribes of the Arabian Desert. After being in bondage in Egypt they entered Palestine and settled about the Canaanites, making Palestine their home.

TIME NOW TO BE PLANNING THE GARDEN

A thrifty Burbank gardener said
"Even though the ground hog saw its shadow and cold days have begun this is really a spring month.
The whole garden patch should be spaded or plowed up, or raked or harrowed down, making a fine mulch on the surface that the moisture may be retained.

"Thoroughly work up the surface of the soil after each rain, and keep it mellow, which will hasten the growth. During this month nearly everything can be planted.
For the flower garden you can plant the following:

"Glaucous, tuberoses, yellow callas, anemones, ranunculus, Japanese lilies, iris, sweet peas for late flowering, all varieties of annuals and perennial poppies.

Vegetables to be planted are plants of asparagus, green globe artichokes, cabbage and cauliflower, chives, garlic, onion sets, horseradish, rhubarb, beans, carrots, collards, cress, early corn, endive, kale, peas, parsley, parsnips, onions and put in early varieties of tomatoes."
